

Tai Initiative to Host a Conference on US/China Subnational Relationships

Tai Initiative has been a great training client for us here at Small Biz Triage, so we're pleased as punch to announce their conference in April on US/China Subnational Relationships.

Carson Tavenner of Tai Initiative has this to say about the event:

The relationship between China and America stretches into every sector of our communities. More than a national relationship, it has been part of the Puget Sound landscape for several decades. On April 12th, 75 regional and national leaders will assemble in the Casey Commons at Seattle University to listen, share, and learn.

Will you be among them? Join us as we reveal opportunities, tactics, and inspiration to influence this unique relationship.

Learn more about the conference and sign up here.

Carson Tavenner (left) in Chengdu in March 2012 with Tan Xin, Deputy Director General of the Department of Foreign Affairs, Sichuan Province.